Dear Esteemed Colleague:

The National University of Science and Technology “MISiS” through its “Program to Increase the Competitiveness of the National University of Science and Technology “MISIS” Among Leading Global Scientific Educational Centers” proudly announces that it is currently accepting applications for the 2015 International Student Scholarship Program from graduate students from our partner universities who plan to study in an engineering or technological field at MISiS for one or two semesters as part of academic exchange program including research program. These highly-competitive, prestigious scholarships cover the entire period of study at MISiS. If a student takes classes with the research project, he/she will receive 30 ECTS per semester in accordance with the learning agreement signed by the home university and MISiS as a host university.

In this case we would like to ask that you share information (see the attachment) about this wonderful scholarship opportunity with graduate students at your University and to strongly encourage those students who you think would be strong applicants and would benefit from an exchange program at MISiS to apply for the International Student Scholarship Program.

More information about the scholarship program, including rules, regulations, deadlines, and how to apply is available on the MISiS English-language website: <http://en.misis.ru/scholaships/general-information> .

Deadline for submission of the applications is 12 May 2015. If you or your students have questions about the International Student Scholarship Program at the National University of Science and Technology MISiS, please do not hesitate to contact us at mp@misys.ru.
